ANETA REGEL

Born in 1976 in Poland

Lives and works in London, England

Aneta Regel creates abstract ceramic sculptures that emulate the natural world around her. The rings, crafted through the same methods she uses to create her mixed-media work, are an ongoing series that re-position the viewer's body as a space to display art: a space where art happens.

Trees, rocks, and riverbeds are some of the elements through which she seeks to convey her vision. She captures the forms, energies, and rhythms of these natural phenomena, and also provokes emotional responses in viewers. Regel explains, "The human body and objects found in nature fascinate me. My work carries anthropomorphic references and autobiographical narratives." In addition to clay and layers of glaze, Regel also uses volcanic rock materials, basalt, granite, and feldspars to form the main body of her pieces, resulting in visually complex surfaces and textures.

Regel is a graduate of the Royal College of Art and member of the Fellow Craft Potters Association. Her work is held in the collections of the World Ceramics Museum in Korea, Westerwald Museum in Germany, and Handelsbankens Konstförening in Sweden. Her first solo exhibition in the United States, Second Nature, was organized at the Jason Jacques Gallery in 2017.

objects made for special occasions as fragile as a teacup and therefore just as strong

no two the same:

choose what you like, no trend in sight

cracked, not broken:
shrinking in the heat of the kiln makes clay strong

keep it forever
